

Tweedle, The Dog Who Thought It Was A Cat

Tweedle was a tiny dog and even before he had his eyes opened his mother had to go to the animal hospital for a long time. When Tweedle's eyes opened he found that a big soft human was feeding him from a bottle. There were no other dogs around so poor Tweedle didn't know what kind of animal he was. When he grew a little older he was allowed on the back porch and there he met a mother cat and four kittens. Since he had never seen any other animals, Tweedle decided he must be a kitten, too, and would grow into a cat just as the kittens were doing. Then one day the kittens escaped from the back yard. Tweedle followed them and found that the outside world was very dangerous and it was also confusing because now he wasn't sure what kind of animal he was!
