

This is a reprint of the 1969 second edition. Khotanese Texts I-III, originally published at intervals in separate volumes and out of print for some years, are made available again and bound together in a single volume. Professor Bailey inserted anusvaras into the text of Khotanese Texts I (they were originally omitted to lighten the diacritical density of transliteration) and he made adjustments to the texts themselves from photographs not available for the original edition. He also added a number of important texts which were identified after the publication of the first edition.
