

Today more than ever, organizations of all types need Leaders of Excellence, those who by their actions, decisions and example help these organizations to achieve their goals and overcome the changing conditions that pose a continuous challenge for those Leadership professionals. But a Leader is more than a person who performs well, is one that makes possible the job done through others. That's what makes a Leader valuable. An Excellent Leader is one who has developed the competencies that allow him to effectively exercise leadership and constantly evaluates his performance based on competencies, changing from a valuable person to an invaluable leader. This book allows you to know and understand the leadership by competencies and develop the basic competencies of the leader, which enables you to reach your own excellence as a leader. Excellence is something measurable, in that way you can evaluate yourself and improve your performance to achieve higher levels of professional accomplishment. This book includes the methodology for the objective assessment of the leadership and gives you a simple way to detect the areas where you need improvements.
